The Board commented as follows:

Architectural Review Board Comments after reviewing the Depot Plaza Project

Depot Plaza was presented to ARB on September 20, 2023

ARB Comments:

Though site plan review is not specifically within ARB scope, the board shared numerous comments that feel are worth noting.

1. There is a universal concern the vehicular entrance to the property will add to an already awkward and precarious traffic/pedestrian pattern at that location. Specifically, when entering the site from the east on Depot Plaza Road while crossing oncoming traffic from the north and from the drop off/pick up zone at the train station. Buses, trucks, autos, and bikes mingle with pedestrians at peak commuter times which adds to the chaotic traffic pattern and will only get worse with the development. We recommend a traffic consultant analyze this condition and provide viable solutions.
2. The board suggests a drop-off curb cut near the building entry be provided. The presenter stated there are designated stalls in the parking area, but we feel they are too remote and will not be effective. Cars will stop at the entrance to unload and given the two-lane drive, this is a potential traffic jam for residents and commercial businesses to the south of the development.

Building Envelop comments

1. In general, the board is pleased with the current design but reserves the right to comment further once the final massing, materials, and finishes are presented to the board. Given the 4-storey building is 354' long, the project successfully creates a reasonable scaled structure by including setbacks, deep fenestrations, and use of contrasting materials. The board responded well to the large window fenestrations that "lighten" the otherwise industrial design. Given the location and the history of industry along the waterfront, most of the board felt the design was appropriate, but a question was raised whether residential housing within a commercial-like building is appropriate.
2. The board is very supportive of the Arts component of the project.
3. The board would like to see more renderings set within the context of the surrounding area including views from all directions to better understand the impact on sight lines and overall massing.

The ARB looks forward to the next iteration of the design and is open to any questions or comments from the Planning Board. Please feel free to contact us at any time.
