

It takes a village to have a great village.

This Station Area Study is a project to make Tarrytown even more fantastic than it already is. This is a unique project. Research is being done. Questions are being asked.

“There are projects happening around the train station and a lot has changed already. Are these projects coordinated?”

The Planning Board is working with experts in the field of transportation and urban planners with owners of the properties around the station area, with business owners, residents in and out of the study area - with people like you.

What is the goal of this study?

The village Planning Board is looking to encourage good design, smart planning, beneficial uses and sustainable development in an area that is evolving quickly. The following panels describe the issues we are looking at and talking about: What are the problems and let's discuss some possible solutions. What are opportunities here and how do we achieve them?

We want your input.

We're trying to make this a model for new planning and development. Asking the question: How can a village reach its full potential in the 21st century?

What are your thoughts?

Every panel has a space for you to add a sticky note (provided) with your comments, ideas, suggestions. You can also contribute via email at:
